EMPEROR NAPOLEON.

London, March 18. British Governor of the Island of St.

General, I have received the treaty of the sed to be held at Manchester, on the 3d of August, 1815, concluded between Austria, the Emperor of Russia, and the King of Prussia, which accompanied your letter of the 23d of July. The Emperor Napoleon protests a gainst the contents of that treaty; he is not the prisoner of England. After having placed his abdication in the hands of the representatives of the nation, for the advantage of the constitution adopted by the French people, and in favour of his son, he repaired voluntarily and freely to England, with the view of living there, as a private individual, under the protection of the British laws. The violation of every law cannot constitute a right.actually in the power of England, but he neither has been, nor is, in the power of Austria, Russia and Prussia, either in fact or of right, even according to the laws and customs of England, which never included, in the exchange of prisoners, Russians, Prussians, Austrians, Spaniards, or Portuguese, though united to these powers by treaties of alliance, and making war conjointly with them. The convention of the 2d of August, concluded fifteen days after the Emperor any effect. It exhibits only a spectacle of the coalition of the four greatest powers of Europe for the oppression of a single man!-a coalition which the opinion sound morality equally disavow.

After I had signed this letter I received your's of the 17th August in which you subjoin the account of an annual sum of £20,000 sterling which you consider indispensable for the support of the expenses of the establishment at Longwood, after having made all the reductions which you thought possible. We do not think we have any thing to do with the discussion on this point-the table of the emperor is scarcely provided with strict necessaries, and all the provisions are of the a fund of £12,000 sterling as your government will only allow £2,000 for all the expenses. I have already had the honor of informing you that the emperor had no funds, that for a year past he had neither written nor received any letter, and that he is altogethar ignoran of what has passed, or is passing in Europe. Transported by force to this rock, without being able to write or to receive any answer, the emperor is entirely at the mercy of the English agents. The emperor has always desired, and is still desirous, to provide himself for all his expenses, of whatever nature, and he will do it as soon as you render it possible by taking off the interdiction laid upon the merchants of the island, with regard to his correspondence, and difecting that it should not be subjected to any inquisition on your part or by any of your agents. Thenceforth the wants of the emperor would be known in Europe, and those persons who interested themselves in his behalf, might send him the funds necessary to provide for

The letter of Lord Bathurst, which you have communicated to me, gives birth to strange ideas. Are your ministers then ignorant that the spectable of a great man in captivity and adversity is a most sublime spectacle ?-Are they ignorant that Napoleon at St. Helena, in the midst of persecution of every description, to which he opposes nothing but serenity, is greater. more sacred, and more venerable than when seated upon the first throne in the world, where so long a time he was the arbiter of kings? Those who in such a situation are wanting to Napoleon are less. blind to their own character and that of the nation which they represent.

On being asked his price, he answered 200 dollars for the 13, or 15 dollars 62 cents each. The enquirer immediately drew a check for the amount, and closed with the offer. The sheep have been sent to the New-York market. They are from a ram of the Bakewell breed, captured in a prize by the privateer Teazer, during the late war .-- They have short legs, large fleece, and remarkable broad chests. It is a characteristic of this breed, that they become remarkably fat on the same qua lity of food that it requires to subsist ordinary sheep. Farmers who raise sheep for the butchers, will do well to attend to these hints.

Now that the Blue Lights are extinguished in Connecticut, we hope some of the Blue Laws may be repealed. If the right of suffrage is properly extended and guarded, that State will never again be signalized for opposition to the General Government, or for aiding and abetting an enemy. The disgraceful scenes of the late war ought never again to find a theatre in America.

Good often comes out of evil, and so it has hapened in this instance. The Hartford Conventithe signals to the British, the attempts to preent recruiting for our army, the withholding the militia, &c. disgusted many of the honest adherents of the federal party, and led to that Revolution in Connecticut, which we had so long looked for in vain, and now so greatly rejoice to see. Sleighing. A parody on "Fe Mariners of England."

E Gentlemen and Ladies, ho scorch in southern climes, Ah, little do you think upon The joy of sleighing times. Give ear unto a Pittsburg man, And he will plainly show All the joys and the fears, When we ride upon the snow.

When snow and frosty weather Turn nature's visage white, We get the girls together, All wrapped up warm and tight. Right merrily their little tongues
Do rattle as we go,
While away, in the sleigh, We ride upon the snow.

At night our weight of metal, You easily may tell; For seldom do we venture out, Unless we have a Belle. And bells have always clappers, And rattle as we go, While in spite of the night,

We ride upon the snow.

If dancing is the fashion, Though "'tis wicked" says the parson We scamper to a village inn, And carry there the farce on. While merrily the fiddle goes, The girls they shake a toe, At noodle doozy we get boozy, And come home upon the snow.

ORLANDO.

CURIOUS INCIDENT.

From Antine Gellins. It was formerly usual for the Senators of Rome to enter the Senate House, accompanied by their sons who had taken the pratexa. When something of superior importance was discussed in the Schate, and the farther consideration adjourned to the day following, it was resolved that no one, should divulge the subjects of their debates, till it should be formally decreed. The mother of the young Papirus, who had accompanied his father to the Senate House, enquired of her son what the Senators had been doing. The youth replied, that is thad been enjoined silence, and was not at liberty to say. The woman became more anxious to know; the secrecy of the thing and the silence of the youth did but inflame her uriosity; she therefore asked him with more Vehement earnestness. The young man, on the importunity of his mother, determined on a humorous and pleasant fallacy; he said it was discussed in the Senate, which would be the most beneficial to the state, for one man to have two Wives, or for one woman to have two husbands. As soon as she heard this she was much agitated, and leaving the house in great trepidation, has-tened to tell the other matrons what she had heard. The next day a troop of matrons went to the Senate House, and with tears and entreaties, unplored that one woman might have two husbands, rather than one man have two wives.-The Senators, on entering the House, were astoceeding of the women, and what their petition could mean. NORFOLK, MAY 5. AN EXCELLENT GRAB!

Captain Appleby, from Honduras, informs, that a small schooner under Car-Magenian colors, with one gun, & about 25 men. (supposed to have been fitted out at New Orleans) had captured off the Balize a Spanish feluche, laden with half a million of Doltars, and Indigo to nearly the same amount. The feluchwas bound to Havana, and it is supposed that the privateer had got intelligence of her, while she was taking in her valuable cargo at Guatamala. - To snew how finely the Spaniards manage. their affairs of importance, Capt. A states, that the Capt. of a British vessel at the Balize had represented to the Spanish authorities the risk of sending so much treasure in one of their vessels in consequence of the vigilance of the insurgent privateers, and offered his vessel to carry it, in which it would go safe -but the Spaniards told him they had no orders to ship it otherwise than in heir own vessels, though they could not but have known that there was a privateer cruizing off the Balize at the time. NOTICE.

GREEABLY to the provisions of an act of the General Assembly, passed at December session, 1816, entitled, "An act for the temporary relief of the poor in the several counties in this State," the Levy Courts of the several counties are authorised and empowered to levy such sums of money on the assessable property of their re-spective counties, as they may deem requisite to grant relief to the poor of the several counties, whom they may believe to be in absolute want of such aid, by allowing all such persons as outpensioners of the Poor Houses of their respective counties, such sums of money, not exceeding thirty dollars each, as they may under all circumstances deem best calculated to relieve them from suffering. All such persons in Talbot county, wishing to avail themselves of the provisions of the above law, are requested to make ap-several meetings. J. LOOCKERMAN, Clk.

We have a number of anecdotes recpecting the manner in which the British received the accounts of our triumphs at sea. Those triumphs have certainly -and the old air of "Britannia rules the waves," is no longer received with the same glee, or re-echoed with the same spirit, by a London audience The ter; but since the defeats on the ocean. and the triumphs at Waterloo, the laurel of the soldier has overshadowed that of the seaman.

Among the efforts which were made o drown their sense of maritime defeat. was the fuss which they attempted to make of the capture of the Chesapeake. -In a thousand ways, it was magnified and emblazoned. The victory of Trafalgar scarcely excited more triumph. Captain Broke was knighted. -He was presented with the freedom of several cities .- The grand affair of the Serpentine River, in the presence of the Russian P inces, was intended to show off this singular victory—and the Chesapeake was brought upon the stage to tickle the mortified vanity of John Bull.

It was on one of these occasions, that the anecdote I am about to relate, took place. It was told me by an American gentleman, who was present at the exhibition. The Chesapeake was paraded in triumph upon the stage, and just as the heads of the Cocknies were inflated with the spectacle, their vanity was turned into shame by an unexpec ed incident. An American seaman was in the pit, and not liking to see his couning, during the ensuing summer, the try's flag struck even in a show, he rose lowing effect : "Yes, said he, & where are the ships you have lost? Where is On Naushawn Island, near Tarpaulin your Guerriere, your Java, your fleets on lakes Erie and Champlain! Why dont't you show them ? COBBETT'S INTENDED PUBLI-CATION.

Jamaica, (Long-Island ) May 11.

It being my intention to resume my literary labours without loss of time, I think it necessary to announce that intention, and to state to the public the principal objects that I have in view to effect by such resumption. To pretend that I shall seek no compensation for the exertion of whatever talents I may possess, would be to act the hypocrite, a character I never yet appeared in-but I can, with perfect sincerity, declare, that private advantage of any sort weighs very little, either wi h me, or any of my family, compared with the desire which we possess of aiding the cause of freedom and justice in England, and through England, in every part of enslaved Eu-

It must be quite evident to every man who reflects on the part which the boroughmongers of England have acted, that upon the duration of their power depends the duration of that of all the despotic governments of Europe. It is impossible to look at the present state of the governments in France, Spain, Belgium, Italy, Naples, &c. without being convinced, that the boroughmongers are their only prop. It is impossible to look at the Holy League, at Alien Act, and Standing Army, in England; at the resiproca surrender of fugitivesby the different governments, without being convinced that disaffection towards the governments is well known to exist thro'out all those populous countries. The fact is, that the people are every where the valour of cowardice, and not of cru- ance. In short, I will do nothing that always been of opinion that its value is of a magbecome enlightened-that they every where understand their rights-that they are every where seeking opportunities for obtaining them and that their governments instead of wisely and justly yielding in time, are every where hardening the grasp of despotism, at d vainly endeavoring, by the means of the bayonet and the gibbet, to check the irresistable progress of the human mind. Not only are they endeavoring to re-establish all the ancient tyrannies and persecu ions, but to render them more oppressive and more terrific than ever, of which there is a complete proof in the agreement into which they have entered for the reciprocal surrender of fugitivesthat is to say, for each government to surrender to each of the other governments any person that may take shelter necessary to secure the personal safety at large in this city, and bit ten or twelve knows well, that this is a perfect novelty in the practice of even the worst of tyrannies—that it amounts not only to the surrender of a part of the sovereignty of each individual state, but that it is in fact, an amalgamation of tyranny, in order, by the augmentation of its weight, to enable it to press out the very soul of freedom from amongst minster Hall. SOUTH-AMERICAN COMMERCE.

The importance of the trade of the South-American provinces, should they fully achieve their independence, appears to be duly estimated by the English prints. It is by some of them considered sufficiently desirable to warrant the interference of the government of Great Britain in favour of the Patriots, even at the sacrifice of all amicable relations. If to the English, the vate of South.American commerce is of "a magnitude hardly to be calculated," how much more momentous would be its consequences with regard to the United States! How much more desirable, to us, the accomplishment of that great event, which would dispense its favours, and mpart its benefits, more particularly to this na-

To a Friend. FORGITE US OUR DEBTS AS WE FOR SIVE OUR DEBTORS.

DEEST is that disposition, mild and even, Which ne'er offends, nor needs to be forgiv'n; Unsway'd by pride, by passion never wrought To stray from duty or by word or thought.

Tet say, can mortals hope below to find, A blanceless virtue, an unerring mind; A spotless character, a perfect life, Estrang'd from error, and exempt from strife?

Ah, no: experience tells us 'tis in vain, To hope on earth perfection's boly reign, For, far beyond this wild, this barren waste, In distant slaies her sacred awelling's plac'd, Where spirits pure enjoy a long abode Of ceaseless bliss, "fast by the throne of God!"

But here, though frailty be the lot of man, The Comman still will do what good he can; A war is best endeavors vain will prove, To pay his Maken half his debt of love; Yet he gives and still performs his best, In hope that Mercy will forgive the rest.

And must we all, at last, depend on Heaven, To leave our faults and numerous sins forgiven? And should we cherish proud resentments long, "Gainst those who injure us, and do us wrong?

Rather in me be that benev'lence found, Which loves to pardon, & which hates to wound, Which looks on others' deeds with kindly eve, And feels how good are they, how weak am I; For we no mercy can from Heaven receive, Unless our foes we pity and forgive.

Pard'ner of sin! we humbly look to thee, To keep our hearts from stubborn passions free; Teach us our own and others' wants to know, And thy forgiving love on all our faults bestow.

BY a resolution passed at the late convention, (having determined to publish a volume of Transactions annually) appointed the subscribers a committee of revisal and publication. They beg leave respectfully to inform the faculty, generally, that they are ready to receive my communication they may think proper to address to them (postage paid) and that they will be duly attended to. As a considerable number of communications have been already received, it is confidently expected the first volume will be put to press during the approaching summer.

FROM LAGUIRA.

Captain Harris, who arrived at this port on Saturday, informs us, that Barcelona was rejaken by the Royalists on the 7 h of April. There were about 600 Patrio: troops in the place at the time, 300 of whom, with a number of women and children, retreated to the church, where they defended themselves for a considerable time, but were at last overpowered, and every soul put to the sword .- Two of the Patriot officers, major and a commandant, were afterwards brought into Laguira and sent to Caraccas, where they were shot.

The Patriot army under the command of Gen. Bolivar, consisting of from 5 to 6000 troops, was in the interior ; - and Gen. Morilla was within a day's march of Caraccas. A general engagemet was daily expected to take place. Two Pathiot privateers, a brig and a schooner, had recently appeared off Laguira .-One of them was commanded by a captain Thompson. They had captured a Spanish felucca, having on board 600,000 dollars in specie. The felucca was bound from Porto Cavello to Laguira. and had on board a Mr. Spencer, of Baltimore, who was set at liberty. The privateers afterwards manned the felucea, and proceeded to Maricaybo, where they succeeded in cutting out several Spanish vessels.
